

THOMAS E. JOHNSON, AIA
Principal

Since 1981, Mr Johnson has been involved with a wide variety of architectural projects ranging from large-scale urban office buildings, museum exhibition design, historic preservation projects, but the most of his talent has been focused on designing performing art and theater facilities. His expertise has helped lead the design efforts on many award winning projects, a number of which include the design, restoration, or adaptive reuse of existing space and theaters into modern, 21st century performance halls. Tom's architectural skills rely heavily on his intimate understanding of performance areas, patron and back-of-the-house support spaces, operational considerations as well as theatrical and building systems. Throughout the last 20 years, he and his partner, Gary Martinez, have expanded their knowledge of theater and performing arts spaces, helping propel their firm into a nationally recognized firm. Much of Mr. Johnson's success stems from his ability to work with existing structures and adapts them for theatrical and performing spaces.
