Re: BZA Appeal No. 18539 – Motion to Intervene; Denial of Request for Stay

Dear Members of the Board:

2014 Kalorama Road LLC (“2014KR”) hereby moves the Board of Zoning Adjustment (“BZA” or “Board”) to allow it to intervene in the above-referenced appeal (the “Appeal”) of a determination letter from the Zoning Administrator issued on December 5, 2012 (the “Determination”) regarding the construction of a rear addition to an existing residential building located at 2014 Kalorama Road NW. 2014KR also requests that the Board deny the request to stay the processing and approval of all permits.

I. MOTION TO INTERVENE

Pursuant to Section 3112.15 of the Zoning Regulations (11 DCMR § 3112.15), 2014KR requests that the Board permit 2014KR to intervene in the Appeal. The Zoning Administrator provided to 2014KR the Determination regarding the construction of a rear addition to an existing building to create a nine-unit apartment house. 2014KR obtained the Determination as guidance that the proposed addition and use will comply with the Zoning Regulations. As the real party-in-interest with regard to the Determination and as the owner of the subject property, 2014KR has a specific interest in, and is directly and uniquely affected by, the outcome of the Appeal.

II. THE BOARD SHOULD DENY THE REQUEST FOR A STAY

2014KR urges the Board to deny the Appellants' request for a stay of processing and approval of all permits related to the planned addition. The Board does not have the authority to issue such a stay, and the issue is not ripe for consideration.¹

First, the Board's appellate power is limited to only those matters relating to the administration and enforcement of the Zoning Regulations. D.C. Code § 6-641.07(g)(1); 11 DCMR § 3100.2. The Zoning Regulations do not govern raze, demolition, sheeting and shoring, and many other permits related to construction. In addition, the Zoning Regulations do not govern matters concerning historic preservation, ownership of trees, trash removal, or the location of HVAC units, so the Appellants' assertions regarding such matters are not relevant to this appeal. Therefore, the Board has no authority to stay the processing and approval of any permits, such as demolition and raze permits, that do not implicate the Zoning Regulations.

Second, the Board has not taken any action on this matter, and a building permit for the project does not exist. As a matter of law, the issue is not justiciable because it is not ripe for consideration, which would be the case only if the Board had taken action through an order or if a building permit existed. Local 36 Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters v. Rubin, 999 A.2d 891, 895-97

¹ The Appellants misconstrue the meaning of Kuflom v. D.C. Bureau of Motor Vehicle Services, 543 A.2d 340 (D.C. 1988). That case concerned a stay considered by the BMVS for infraction and license suspension actions pending or already taken by the agency. That case reiterated the standards that an agency must apply when determining whether to stay an action of that agency. However, the case does not state that an agency has broad stay powers when it has not even acted; thus, it is not applicable in this case because the BZA has not taken any action.

(D.C. 2010). Therefore, the Board cannot issue a stay for a BZA order that does not exist or building permit that does not exist.

Finally, the Board's power to stay is limited to its own actions and orders, and it does not normally extend to the actions of other agencies. See generally George Washington Univ. v. D.C. Bd. of Zoning Adjustment, 831 A.2d 921 (D.C. 2003). Therefore, its power to stay does not extend to the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs and the processing and approval of building permits or to projects that do not require BZA approval.

III. CONCLUSION

The Board should grant intervenor status to 2014KR because it is the real party in interest in the Determination and will be directly and uniquely affected by the outcome of the Appeal. Also, the Board should deny the request for a stay of processing and approval of all permits because it does not have the authority to issue such a stay, and the issue is not ripe for consideration.

Sincerely,
GOULSTON & STORRS, P.C.
