Washington, DC 20009

Dear James:

In response to your request, I attach plans kindly provided by my architect, and which were filed with the DC government. Please note that the letter you received was one of many perfunctory requirements of the DC building permit application process. In this connection, the letter was merely pro forma – we do not anticipate this project will affect your property. That said, we will be happy to inspect your property prior to construction and ensure we do not damage it. I take the liberty of delivering this to your mailbox rather using registered mail.

Regards
