

WASHINGTON, D.C.

517 Q Street, NW, Washington DC 20001

The structure that once existed at 517 Q Street, NW was a two story, three bedroom, townhouse that was constructed in the late 1800's. The building was in use as a rental property up through 2013. On February 27, 2013 the building suffered from a partial collapse. The eastern wall collapsed and through subsequent assessment by the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs it was condemned in March of 2013. The building has been razed and the property has been cleared of all debris and secured. (Picture above from 2009)

