Director. DC. Zoning Commission

October 3, 2006

As a native Washingtonian, and a resident of Foggy Bottom I strongly object to the new zoning proposal put forth by George Washington University. The university has a ten year plan approved by your commission. They are now asking you to scrap that plan, so they can increase their density in the community, and bring in more real estate income to their coffers. Georgetown University has agreed to abide with their surrounding community its understanding about further growth in to Georgetown. G.W. doesn't seem to care what impact their expansion has on their Foggy Bottom neighbors.

I strongly object to any approval of George Washingtons application for a new campus plan, and feel that such a plan would have a detrimental effect on our Community. It would also set a very bad precedent for future proposals for expansion into our wonderful community.

Sincerely yours,

Stanley Tempchin, O.D.
