Architectural & Historical Resources

The Foggy Bottom Campus Plan: 2006 – 2025 demonstrates a commitment to maintaining architectural and historic resources on the Foggy Bottom campus. A number of buildings on the campus are formally registered with the National Register of Historic Places or as DC Historic Sites. As a result, the existing built environment of the campus provides a diverse composition of old and new structures of varying scale. In an effort to maintain and preserve the unique character of the campus through the twenty-year term of this Campus Plan, GW worked closely with historic preservation consultants and the Office of Planning to identify additional buildings of significant historical and architectural value, in addition to those already formally designated. GW will continue its work with the Office of Planning to develop an architectural and historic resources designation plan for the Foggy Bottom campus in conjunction with the Foggy Bottom Campus Plan: 2006-2025.

Specifically, the proposed development plan reflects the removal of previously identified development sites along G and F Streets that included buildings, that while not listed on the National Register or DC Historic Sites lists, were identified as historically and/or architecturally significant. In addition, certain development sites (77A and 77D) have been specifically modified to include the adaptive reuse of relevant buildings (including The West End building at 2124 I Street, Crawford Hall at 2119 H Street, Schenley Hall at 2121 H Street, and Lafayette Hall at 2100 I Street).

A list of National Register of Historic Places and DC Inventory of Historic Sites on the Foggy Bottom Campus follows, as well as an inventory of the architectural and historic resources recognized by GW through the planning effort associated with the Foggy Bottom Campus Plan: 2006 – 2025.
