Dear Sir,

I am a tax paying resident of Burleith. I have lived here for over twenty years.

The houses in Burleith were mostly built in 1929 for families. Those of us who live here can hear our neighbors going up and down stairs because the walls are about one brick thick. These houses were not built to house six unrelated persons which is what is happening because Georgetown University does not house its students on Campus.

One year there were six undergrad girls and 2 graduate students living with me. It was a miserable experience because

The last girl came home at midnight and Chit. Chatted until 2AM with her roommates. The first one got up at 5AM. She heard it all. When we asked them to be quiet after midnight, their response was that their rent was so high that they could do as they pleased.

I am a nurse and I work weekends. Many a weekend I have had to get out of bed, put on my bathrobe and walk down my alley to request a loud party of 30 or 40 students to move inside at midnight.

I have been called an interfering bitch when I asked a Georgetown medical student not to dump his backyard waste in Glover Park.

Please consider limiting the size of Georgetown's student body. Our houses are for families, not dormitory overflow.

Sincerely, May Vaughan
