Subject: Petitions to Protect Glover Archbold Park in connection with Georgetown University's 2010 campus plan, Zoning Commission case number 10-32

Dear Chairman Hood:

Enclosed are seven pages of petitions urging protection of Glover Archbold Park from Georgetown University's proposed bus road. Altogether, there are 57 signatures.

I obtained these signatures at a meeting of the Foxhall Community Citizens' Association and at the polling place on election day 2010. Other people have also collected signatures, so I expect the number of residents who have gone on record about this issue to increase.

Please include these petitions in the administrative record of the case.

Sincerely,

Ann Haas

Petition to Protect Glover Archbold Park

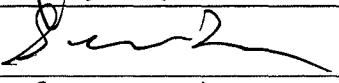

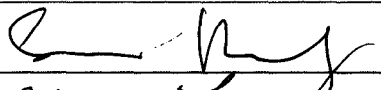

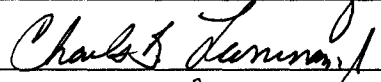

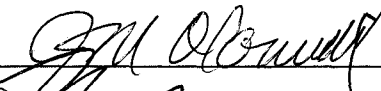

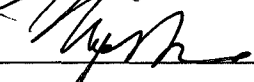

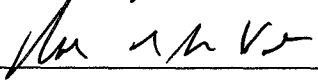

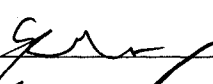

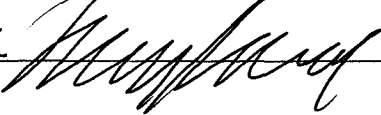

from Georgetown University's Proposed Bus Road

Georgetown University (GU) proposes to build a bus road along the eastern rim of Glover Archbold Park, which is a National park and urban treasure in the District of Columbia. If approved, the bus road will become the route for hundreds of buses a day. GU's plan calls for the road to be built on the eastern ridge of the park, which has collapsed twice in several years. The plan requires a stand of mature trees to be removed as well as significant re-grading of the slope. The bus traffic will pollute the park with noise, light, and exhaust. We, the undersigned, neighbors and concerned citizens, oppose GU's plan to construct and operate a road for bus traffic along the eastern ridge of Glover Archbold Park.
