Re: G.W.U. BZA CASE 16553

Dear President Trachtenberg:

This is only an annual update expressing my appreciation to you for the outstanding assistance, attention, commitment, care, tolerance, patience, and many more appellations that describe George Washington University's relationship with School Without Walls Senior High School. Not only has the university provided space facilities and general course work for our school but it has also provided a "philosophical" reassurance that "programs are people" in light of personal guidance to students from (particularly) Pamela Woodruff.

Unbelievably, Dr. Woodruff made several calls to me regarding one of our students enrolled in her class. She counseled the student, extended her office hours, and fretted regarding his progress. That doesn't sound like a "typical" college professor.

Additionally, Mr. Kevin Muldoon, the realty coordinator and his staff have assisted so much. Mr. Michael Peller, Director at the Smith Center has been accommodating, as usual. Dr. B.J. Moreland is a real asset to G.W.U. Her tireless efforts have been exemplary. I don't have to tell you how pleased we are with our 21st-Century Scholar, Margaret Bellis. We even received computers from the School of Education and lots of assistance from the Gelman librarians. I could go on and on. You know how appreciative we are.

May you continue to bring excellent opportunities to students and staff of SWW.

Sincerely,

Emily J. Crandall
Principal, SWW
