Re: Georgetown University Ten Year Plan

Dear Ms. Cross-Reid:

We have been living in Burleith since 1967 and with the invasion of Georgetown University students renting houses in the area we have experienced minor acts of vandalism: for example,a sculpture road marker was stolen from our back yard, but later discovered and recovered from the back yard of such a house, Recently a street trash can (matching some at the University) has been dumped at the corner of 37th and S Sts. and is overflowing with litter.

Although we enjoy seeing young people walking up and down 37th St. we strongly object to having them reside nearby. They tend to be trashy and neglect their surroundings. There are too many students to each house. They are especially apt to hold night parties yelling and hollering until 5 AM. Are they nocturnal creatures? We used to have a good neighbor who would walk around the block every Saturday and Sunday morning picking up beer bottles and plastic cups.

Any increase of the student population at Georgetown University will put pressure on the rental market by a youthful and careless population in an already seriously impacted neighborhood not only by students but by their cars.

It is time for the University to build an undergraduate campus somewhere in the outer suburbs where they can expand and run wild. The old campus should be reserved for a limited group of serious scholars and civilized people who could blend more fittingly into the community. Needless to say, we are strongly opposed to the Georgetown University Ten Year Plan.

Sincerely,
Mary & Henry Meyer
