Re: Application Number 16740

Dear Ms. Kress:

I firmly oppose the granting of a special exception to the applicant Jacobsen Builders, Inc., for construction of a new single family dwelling at 2989 Arizona Avenue N.W. Authorizing such an exception would condone the serious violation committed by the Applicant in removing many protected trees from this lot in violation of the Chain Bridge Road/University Terrace Tree and Slope Protection Overlay District covered by Zoning Commission Order No. 863, Case No. 97-6.

Last autumn, the applicant clear-cut and partially excavated the steep slope of the site, which was thickly wooded with mature trees of several native species—the very type of landscape the TSP Overlay was supposed to protect.

The applicant claims he was unaware of the TSP Overlay and was entitled to clear the property when granted a building permit by the District of Columbia Zoning Office. The erroneous issuance of a building permit by the District of Columbia does not free the applicant from lawful zoning requirements, including the TSP Overlay. Evidence shows the applicant was on notice as to the applicable Zoning Overlay requirements limiting tree removal on the property prior to purchasing the property and prior to his unlawful removal.

In 1998-1999, the residents of the Chain Bridge Road and University Terrace area of the Palisades neighborhood worked diligently to craft and build consensus for a tree and slope overlay. It was designed to preserve "the park-like setting of the area by regulating alterations or disturbances of terrain, destruction of trees, coverage with impervious surfaces and by providing for widely spaced residences." Having endorsed the TSP Overlay, the Board of Zoning Adjustment should send an unmistakable message to the applicant and other developers that violation of the overlay is unacceptable. I urge the BZA to require the applicant to reforest the lot and to prevent him from building on the lot for the full period permitted under District of Columbia zoning laws.

Sincerely,

David Mel Paul
