October 15, 2002

Dear BZA,

I support the proposal of the Washington Home in its entirety.

It is inexplicable why this facility should be prevented from voluntarily providing the density a quantity of parking required by its staff, clients, and visitors to take pressure off the neighborhood streets, while other development projects across the city must be forced to meet that standard..

If the Washington Home's zoning variance is denied, how will you explain your decision to artificially restrict, and consequently underserve, the parking requirements for the Washington Home when other developers point to this decision as justification not to provide reasonable an adequate parking?

A neighbor of the Washington Home,

Ron Butler

Ron Butler
4111 38th St., NW
Washington, DC 20016

BZA
Case No. 16836
Exhibit No. 99

Board of Zoning Adjustment
District of Columbia
CASE NO.16836
EXHIBIT NO.99