Personal observations by Cheryl Tennille of NCRC Traffic on November 12, submitted in Opposition in Case No. 16970

I, Cheryl Tennille, observed traffic and parking activity on Highland Place in the vicinity of the National Child Research Center and took the following photographs on that date. All of these were taken during the afternoon pickup time.

I observed NCRC's 3:30 p.m. Highland Place pickup while standing across the street from 3141 Highland Place. The 3:00 p.m. pickup was still underway when, at 3:12, NCRC cars began parking on the street. From that time until 3:45 p.m., 16 drivers parked their vehicles and walked to NCRC. I noticed that the queue line only starts when nearby parking spaces have been taken. I observed about 16 cars join queue; two of those left the line and backed into street parking, when other cars pulled out of those spaces.

The photograph below shows the queue at approximately 3:35 p.m.
