

Wilshire Park

Condominium

April 26, 2016

Dear Owners and Board of Directors,

Thaitastik has rented space for approximately 6 months here at Wilshire Park Condominiums. During this time the staff of Thaitastik has been model tenants. There has never been any complaints from the 5 other commercial tenants about Thaitastik. Thaitastik abides by all rules and regulations and is frequented by several unit owners in the building. Of the 6 tenants that we currently have Thaitastik is the only tenant that abides by the entrance rules. The owner of Thaitastik is very easy to deal with and is appreciative of anything that is done. I highly recommend her company as a tenant for your consideration.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call the management office at 202-363-8805.

Thank you,

Lorenzo M. Johnson

3 check-ins

I love coming out here. Definitely helpful when you're very sore, like after running a marathon or you've been lifting a lot.

The Thai-combo massages were great, and recently I feel like they've gotten better. I've had a great experience coming here, though be forewarned that you might hear some of the horns blaring if you're coming here during rush hour. Nonetheless, to have a great massage somewhere in the city, that's not too far out of the way, is a small price to pay in my mind. The quality and service are good and would recommend.

The massage therapists at Thaitastik are great. Pinn, in particular, is great. I don't live in DC, but every time I come to DC, I get a massage (or three) at Thaitastik.

I was annoyed by the review of "Jane L" (who seems to be a fraud, given that she only has one review, a mean-spirited one-star review of Thaitastik). I don't understand why the wonderful masseuses at Thaitastik should be criticized for eating rice and drinking coffee (if that is true; I have never noticed any rice cookers or coffee makers anywhere in Thaitastik). Jane L, you should get a life.

I live in Dupont Circle and have been craving a moderately priced massage parlor for those times when weeks of weight lifting and exercise have caught up to me and my back feels like it is in a million knots. Randomly, I stumbled upon this place online and was elated to find out it was located in the building next to mine. Reviews seemed great and perfect for what I needed so I went. The appointment process is kind of awkward (email or text) but they were able to squeeze me in for a same evening appointment. I reserved a 90 minute massage for $115 with Jenny.

I have gotten a ton of standard sweedish and deep tissue massages in nice spas, but never a thai massage. The ladies who worked there were very friendly and the room was nice. I walked into the room expecting a table, but was surprised when I saw the floor set-up. They use their knees and bodies (to help stretch) as part of the process - so it makes sense. The ambiance and light music were great. Not a 5 star spa, but more than I expected from the basement of a condo building.

The massage itself was fantastic. She seemed to be able to tell where I was tight and hurting rather than me have to constantly point, which made for a more relaxing experience. Overall - I would call the experience more theraputic than pampering - but that was exactly what I needed. There was use of some light lotions and oils and hot towels to wipe them off. I didn't walk away feeling greasy.

At the end - she offered me some powdered ginger tea which I have never had before but thought was great. I will 100% be back on a regular basis.

They stretched me like a trainer stretches a professional football player. They turned me into a pretzel and stretched my arms and legs and hips! Wow. My body needs this. I have been many times and tried many of the practitioners and all are good.

Seems like some of the practitioners have moved on with one left.

I will start by saying that I am borderline obsessed with this place. These ladies do an amazing job getting all of the knots, tension, and stress out...so much so that I have been unable to do mental math calculations to figure out how much to tip them afterwards!

I always get the combo & have worked myself up to 90 minute sessions. My first session, I had booked the 90 minutes, expecting the typical fru-fru spa "deep tissue" massage. Jin counseled me into the 60 minutes so that it wasn't too much for me, which I deeply appreciated. As I came to find out, if you aren't used to a real deep tissue or thai stretching, the first few visits can be intense. Now, I look forward to the good pain!

These ladies are truly artful practitioners and I am amazed at how good & strong they are. I always go in feeling terrible with my shoulders at my ears from stress & carrying the dreaded laptop bag, and every time they have me feeling like a new, gooier, version of myself! It does not get any better than this!

This was my first visit to Thaitastik in Dupont. The spa is nicely appointed given the small space. Before the massage, I was offered tea or water. I booked a 60-minute massage and Jenny was my therapist. If you need to work out the kinks in a seriously deep tissue massage, request Jenny. I was asked to change into a pair of linen pants and was very comfortable lying face down on the foam pad on the floor. Jenny is a very kind, focused, not

This place is a haven from the hectic just two feet outside. The minute I walk in I'm greeted with a lovely smile and demeanor that makes me feel they have been sitting there the whole day just waiting for me.

These ladies have the magic touch. They check in with you and ask if the pressure is okay. They know when to ease up on the pressure and when more was needed. Maybe it comes from years of experience..maybe it's a natural gift Who knows? but they knows! I don't know how, but they knooow!

Kinks, knots, potholes... I've got it all. they do what they do and an hour later I'm cured. I try to visit at least twice a month. there's a very noticeable difference between my posture now and the few days after the massage.
