

JEFF LOCKWOOD, AIA

Jeff is a senior associate at Hickok Cole with 26 years of experience in design and architecture. Jeff brings his design and management skills to the housing group, collaborating on complex mixed-use projects and focusing on projects that involve jurisdictional and historic approvals. Jeff earned his B.ARCH degree from the University of Kentucky College of Design, graduating Summa Cum Laude and receiving numerous faculty merit and design prizes.

Title
Senior Associate

Project Role
Project Manager

Accreditations
AIA

Education
Bachelor of Architecture
University of Kentucky,
College of Architecture

Frager's Hardware WASHINGTON, DC

Project Manager for a renovation of a historic hardware store in Capitol Hill. The redevelopment efforts for this project included historic restoration of the remaining facades, construction of all new floors, three additional new floors, and below grade level with retail space and parking.

2009 8th Street WASHINGTON, DC

Project Manager for the redevelopment of a once-popular nightclub in the Shaw neighborhood of Washington, DC into a new mixed-use residential building. The building is designed to include 132 apartments, penthouses, and 160,000 SF of commercial retail space.

4000 North Fairfax ARLINGTON, VA

Project Manager for a new 326-unit, 22-story tower at the edge of the Ballston corridor in Arlington, Virginia.

Board of Zoning Adjustment
District of Columbia
CASE NO. 20452
EXHIBIT NO. 73A