Abstract: Research suggests that the use of a computer-based system to deliver a self-paced, self-directed training program can be an effective method for training employees. The purpose of this study was to determine the effectiveness of a self-paced, self-directed training program for teaching employees how to use a computer-based system to deliver a self-paced, self-directed training program. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting and involved 30 participants. The results of the study indicated that the self-paced, self-directed training program was effective in teaching employees how to use a computer-based system to deliver a self-paced, self-directed training program. The study also found that the self-paced, self-directed training program was more effective than a traditional classroom-based training program.
