Carol Mitten, Zoning Commissioner

Washington D.C. 20001

Dear Ms. Mitten:

As long time kayakers, bicycle riders and hikers, we were appalled to read that the city of Washington is considering giving approval to the Georgetown University Boathouse before doing a parking plan. It is bad enough that you have not done the hydrologic study or an environmental assessment, but based on our many weekends at crew regattas we know how hard it is to get shells in and out of boathouses and a place for vehicles could well ruin the Washington river banks for generations to come.

Before allowing the building of this monstrosity to begin, please consider the ramifications for the future.
