

City Officials,

I want the Zoning Regulations Rewrite to be an inclusive public review process. As I am coming to find out, it has not been so far.

The ZRR is a document that is nearly 1,000 pages and will direct how the City develops for the next several generations. It is publicly available in English-only.

I am asking that the ZRR, and all affiliated zoning cases, be translated into DC's various spoken languages, and at least in spanish. This request is supported by the DC Comprehensive Plan for building an Inclusive City.

I am also asking that more time be granted so that limited-English speaking residents and communities can be given the chance to come to grasp with what is at stake with the ZRR and allow them to participate meaningfully.

I look forward to your response to this request.

Respectfully,
Nicholas Udu-gama
