

I wanted to write to support an increase in zoning at the U Street Third District Police Station. The greater DC area has faced a severe housing shortage over the past two decades, causing housing prices to increase dramatically. U Street is a vibrant part of our city accessible to transit and many other amenities. Building more housing here will help slow rising housing costs. Additionally, building more housing in and of itself reduces carbon emissions, and building near metro will reduce car travel, further reducing the city's carbon emissions. New neighbors will create a larger customer base for nearby businesses and contribute to civic engagement.

Please allow for more housing to be built at this site.
