

note: interior components, interior partitions and configurations may vary upon final construction drawings so long as the exterior configuration or appearance of the building is not changed. residential unit number, types and sizes may vary within the range proposed.

exterior details, to make minor refinements to exterior details, dimensions, and locations or any other changes to comply with construction codes or that are otherwise necessary to obtain a final building permit, or to address the structural, mechanical, or operational needs of the building or its systems.

integrated solar & green roof per DOEE standards